

We designed two separate extensions for this small detached house, both have their own character. The owners needed space to meet the demands of a growing family.

Our designs were influenced by the shape & location of the plot and the aspirations of the client

The second extension embodied dreams of New England with weathered cedar boarding, internally we created corners to sit and reflect and enjoy the here and rather than worry about the future