

Our client sought a contemporary farmhouse for their woodland setting

We used the forms of linked barns and outbuildings to create the massing and by using vistas through the circulation spaces we tried to establish a connection with the landscape

Externally we used white render and brick for external walls with circular timber columns to support overhanging roofs at entrances.

The roof was natural slate roof and inside a limited palette of good quality materials was used in particular a cherry wood floor throughout

